Uses in ADHD and Narcolepsy

Adderall is primarily prescribed for Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD). It increases neurotransmitter activity—specifically dopamine and norepinephrine—enhancing concentration, focus, and impulse control. Patients experience improved productivity, academic performance, and overall daily functioning.

Adderall is also prescribed for narcolepsy, helping individuals stay alert and awake throughout the day. Both conditions benefit from the stimulant effects, allowing users to maintain energy levels and mental clarity consistently.

Dosage Information

Adderall comes in Immediate-Release (IR) and Extended-Release (XR) formulations:

- IR Tablets: 5mg, 10mg, 15mg, 20mg, 30mg
- XR Capsules: 5mg, 10mg, 15mg, 20mg, 25mg, 30mg

The typical adult starting dose is 5–10mg once or twice daily, gradually adjusted under medical supervision. XR versions provide all-day coverage with a single morning dose. Always follow the prescribed dosage to avoid side effects such as insomnia, increased heart rate, or anxiety.

Safe Usage Tips

To ensure effective and responsible use:

- Take in the morning to prevent sleep disturbances
- Avoid alcohol and other stimulants
- Keep medication in a cool, dry place
- Never share Adderall with others
- Stay hydrated and maintain a balanced diet
- Schedule regular telehealth check-ins for dose monitoring
