Uses in ADHD and Narcolepsy

Adderall is primarily used to treat Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD), a condition that affects focus, impulsivity, and task completion. By increasing dopamine and norepinephrine levels in the brain, it helps patients maintain attention, reduce hyperactivity, and improve overall daily productivity.

It is also prescribed for narcolepsy, a disorder causing excessive daytime sleepiness. Adderall's stimulant properties promote wakefulness, alertness, and consistent energy levels throughout the day. Regular telehealth follow-ups ensure that dosage and usage remain safe and effective.

Available Strengths & Dosages

Adderall is available in multiple strengths to accommodate individual needs:

- Immediate-Release (IR): 5mg, 10mg, 15mg, 20mg, 30mg
- Extended-Release (XR): 5mg, 10mg, 15mg, 20mg, 25mg, 30mg

Typical adult dosage begins at 5–10mg once or twice daily, with adjustments made based on response and medical supervision. XR versions provide all-day coverage with a single morning dose, helping maintain focus without midday interruptions. Misuse can result in insomnia, elevated heart rate, or anxiety, so following prescription guidelines is essential.

Safe Usage Guidelines

To ensure Adderall is effective and safe:

- Take doses early in the day to prevent sleep disturbance
- Avoid combining with alcohol or other stimulants
- Store in a cool, dry place
- Never share medication
- Maintain proper hydration and diet

- Regular telehealth consultations help monitor side effects and dose adjustments
