Uses in ADHD and Narcolepsy

Adderall is a central nervous system stimulant prescribed for ADHD, a condition that affects attention, impulse control, and hyperactivity. It improves concentration, reduces restlessness, and supports better productivity for both adults and children.

It is also prescribed for narcolepsy, helping patients stay awake and alert during the day. By increasing dopamine and norepinephrine in the brain, Adderall enhances cognitive focus, reduces fatigue, and supports consistent energy levels.

Dosage and Strengths

Adderall is available in multiple dosages to suit individual needs:

- Immediate-Release (IR) Tablets: 5mg, 10mg, 15mg, 20mg, 30mg
- Extended-Release (XR) Capsules: 5mg, 10mg, 15mg, 20mg, 25mg, 30mg

Typical adult starting dose is 5–10mg once or twice daily, adjusted gradually under professional guidance. XR formulations provide all-day coverage with a single morning dose, making it ideal for busy schedules. Following the prescribed dose ensures safety and minimizes side effects such as insomnia, anxiety, or elevated heart rate.

Safe Usage Guidelines

- Take medication early in the day to prevent sleep disturbances
- Avoid alcohol and other stimulants
